

MEMORANDUM FOR: JJH

John:

At long last we have had a response of sorts from OTR to your memo of 9 February concerning the structure of the Introduction to Intelligence Course. For the next running they plan a 50 minute presentation on the general subject of imagery exploitation. The presentation should be generally oriented on the function not the "organization."

The first question is - would you be willing to give this briefing? If not, other alternatives are

Perhaps if you give the first one then we can line up others to give subsequent courses. At

MEMORANDUM FOR: Special Assistant, NPIC

SUBJECT : Briefing for the Introduction to Intelligence Course

1. I have received a request from the course chairman for the Introduction to Intelligence Course to provide a speaker from the NPIC on the subject of Imagery Exploitation. The briefing is on 6 April 1970 at 0900-0950 and will be held at 1000 Glebe Road in Room 701. The presentation will be part of the block of instruction on "Processing of Intelligence Information" and would serve as an example of this type of intelligence function. Attached is the schedule for the last running of the course.

2. OTR plans that for each block of instruction three guest speakers from components involved in the particular intelligence activity will be obtained and they will be rotated to give the briefing for each course running. Therefore, NPIC can expect to be called upon approximately three times per year. The guest speakers and panelists participating in the course range from the new young professional employee through office chiefs. The course planners are not concerned with the "name" or grade of the speakers but want individuals who can give a good factual presentation on the particular subject and who are willing to freely participate in question and discussion periods. I believe that is the type of speaker they are looking for in this course.
